Council supports youth projects

Applications for funding are now open for projects and initiatives that cater to young people who live in the Camden LGA.

Council is offering up to $4000 to local youth services and community groups planning to hold an event for people aged between 12-25 years.

“We want to encourage activities that involve young people and generate awareness of issues that are important to them,” said Mayor Lara Symkowiak.

“This partnership fund has been set up to support organisations to actively reach our diverse young community,” Cr Symkowiak said.

Expressions of Interest for the Camden Youth Outreach Partnership Program are open until Friday 18 May.

Events and programs must be held between July 2018 and June 2019 and matched dollar for dollar (or in kind) by the event organisers.
