Golden opportunity to work with watercolours

Give your children the golden opportunity to develop their artistic abilities, with a Watercolour for Kids workshop running for the first time these school holidays.

Watercolour for Kids will be held on Wednesday 10 July, 10am-noon, at Alan Baker Art Gallery in Macaria, 37 John Street, Camden.

Mayor of Camden, Cr Theresa Fedeli, said it will teach primary school students foundational watercolour technics, washes, blending, tonal control and colour mixing.

“The children will take home finished artworks of various disciplines including landscape, still-life and design,” Cr Fedeli said.

“Our very own Art Gallery Curator, Roger Percy, will be running the workshop. He has 48 years of watercolour experience and is wonderfully encouraging.

“Children are naturally creative and Alan Baker Art Gallery is here to nurture that creativity. It’s a safe, creative environment where children can explore art and make new friends at the same time.”

The workshop will be $12 per child, with all materials provided.
